These include visas, permits, and other immigration regulations for the. including tourist visas, student visas, business visas, etc.Q: How to get the value of a property set in a constructor? If I do something like class A { String param1 = ""; String param2 = ""; } class B { public static void main(String[] args) { System.out.println(A.class.getDeclaredProperty("param1")); System.out.println(A.class.getDeclaredProperty("param2")); } } How can I get the value of params from B? I tried A.class.getDeclaredProperty("param1") but it returned null. A: The JVM makes the lookup of these properties during the Class initialisation and that is not a cheap operation. You need to use reflection for it. class A { String param1 = ""; String param2 = ""; public void someMethod() { System.out.println(A.class.getDeclaredProperty("param1").getName()); System.out.println(A.class.getDeclaredProperty("param2").getName()); } } class B { public static void main(String[] args) { A a = new A(); a.someMethod(); } } 1. Technical Field of the Invention This invention relates to an amplifier circuit, particularly, to an amplifier circuit with a plurality of output terminals. 2. Description of the Related Art In the circuit configuration of, for example, an operational amplifier of an input differential pair amplifier, which requires that a plurality of output signals be output from the operational amplifier, there is a conventional technique whereby a plurality of output terminals are disposed on one and the same substrate, and the output terminal to be connected to the ground is determined by the voltage control of 1cb139a0ed
